

How Can We Increase the Percentage of Female Leaders?

Monday the 8th of December from 14:30 – 16:30
UN City Copenhagen, Marmorvej 51, 2100 Copenhagen Ø

In this seminar, the authors of the book “Bridging the Gender Gap” (Oxford University Press 2014), Lynn Roseberry, Associate Professor and Equal Opportunities Officer, Copenhagen Business School, and Johan Roos, CEO and Professor, Jönköping International Business School, will share their experiences of working with gender balance in leadership positions from interviews with managers from all over Europe and the United States.

What are the most common explanations for persistent gender imbalances? What can we do as individuals, HR personnel or managers to counter these imbalances? How can we involve more men into the work towards greater gender balance in leadership positions?

Lynn Roseberry and Johan Roos will, in collaboration with UN Women, give their take on these questions and present their 7 guiding principles on how to narrow the gender gap in leadership and employment. The seminar will start with a presentation from the authors and later expand into a “work-shop” with concrete exercises on how to get started on gender diversity work in your organization, as well as group discussions and Q&A with the authors.

Sign up by emailing: unwomen.nordic.events@gmail.com before 3 December 2014.

Please state the full name of all participants, title and organization in your registration. There are a limited number of seats, and they will be handed out on a first-come-first-serve-basis.

As a part of UN Women’s work to engage more men in the work for gender equality, we will encourage you all to bring along a male colleague/friend/husband/ to the seminar. Interested in how UN Women work to engage men and boys in the work for gender equality? Check out: www.heforshe.org

We look forward to seeing you there!
